Beyond Boundaries: How Leaders Can Create Change

Objectives: Participants will be able to
- Discuss the reasons why people and organizations resist change and why most change efforts fail.
- Describe the ideas from psychology, cognitive science and neuroscience about what actually works for inspiring and creating change.
- Apply the principles of behavioral change to the challenges of leadership for individuals, teams and organizations

Description: Creating and sustaining meaningful change is a formidable challenge for aspiring leaders. In this session we'll look at the most common strategies for change efforts and why these approaches usually fail. We'll draw explanations from research in psychology, cognitive science and neuroscience, and we'll explain the counter-intuitive strategies that are more likely to succeed. Then we'll focus more specifically on the role of leaders in change efforts—from formulating long-term visions to demonstrating new behaviors through their own everyday activities. The session will conclude with participants applying these ideas as they begin to develop their own strategies for creating change.
